We take or make the occasion for telling all ch what they ought to know for their own takes,

as well as that of the nation.

If the Republicans retain their distinct party or gasization and nominate any such ultra man as Mr. Seward for the Presidency, no respectable Southern man will accept their nomination for the Vice-Presiman will accept their nomination for the Vice-Presidency. Thus far is certain. But wa go farther and any that, unleas the Republicans shall, like the Americans, lay aside their separate expanization and fuse with all the elements of opposition upon turns of perfect equality, or shall do something most distinctly to remove from it the imputation of being either a purely anti aluvery or an exclusivaly sectional party, neither Mr. Crittenden nor Mr. Bell mor any Southern man of equal respectability would accept its nomination even for the Presidency. It is time that this matter should be distinctly
